

Health Care Training: The emerging international workforce

Health care worker shortages are impacting the world. The US alone has a 1,600,000 nurse shortfall.

FHA assisted in planning future training facilities for thousands of foreign nurses to ultimately supplement international medical profession demands. Countries included the Philippines and Ghana.

Facility planning focused on unique cultural elements that impact learning style, modality, and technology use.